Ship of Dreams

By Allan Weiner

It was a ship full of dreams. Dreams of broadcasting on international shortwave. Dreams of sending hopeful messages from many people transmitted over the air.

The Voyager Broadcast project was the hope and dream of many. Financed by a man of God, Brother Stair of the Overcomer Ministry, the station was to be an outlet for religious programming and the right of free speech.

The Voyager ship was a converted fishing trawler 140 feet long by 30 feet wide. She was planned to be fitted out with four shortwave transmitters, and was in the process of repair and restoration in Charleston harbor South Carolina.

The ship was to set sail in early February for southern waters where she was to broadcast from a safe anchorage in Belize territory. (The Country of Belize is located on the Yucatan peninsula in central america about 600 miles south of the United States.) It was not to be so. On January 19, 1994 at 8:30 AM EST, The Federal Communications Commission aided by U.S. Federal marshals and the U.S. Coast Guard, sized the M.V. FURY and almost immediately began to debowel her of all her radio equipment.

One day later it was all gone. Transmitters, tubes, parts, test equipment, personal stereos, transformers, cable, insulators, tape recorders, CD's, antennas, towers, cassette machines, all the stuff that make up a radio station—gone No arrests, no hearings, nothing The reason? The FCC claims to have identified transmissions from 12:10 AM EST to 3:21 AM EST on January 14, 1994 which they claim were pinpointed to the location of the ship. I was on board the vessel at the time an I observed no such transmissions between those times and none were technically possible with the existing equipment.

I built the radio station on board the FURY for the Overcomer Ministry. As the engineer, I advised the owners of the ship to secure all legal registry and ships radio licenses. This was done; I insured everything was to be done by the book. The FURY was issued a ship registration and radio station license that would make it entirely legal to broadcast once the vessel arrived in Belize territory.

At Charleston harbor no broadcasts came out of the FURY while I was on duty. In fact only two of her four transmitters were partially restored. Of these two only one could be applied primary filiment power. None of the transmitters were ready to broadcast–period Furthermore there was no available source of transmitter power.

Both transmitter generators were down for final installation and repairs. The main generator was inoperative due to a fuel leak and the backup generator had a burned out regulator.

So the question remains, why was an entirely legal radio station destroyed without a hearing and due process? What is going on here? Does the FCC possess such fear that they will disregard all assemblage of personal rights, international law, and due process?

As a radio engineer it pains me to see such wanton destruction of personal property for no reason. The Overcomer Ministry had invested large sums of money and time to make this floating radio ship of GOD and freedom a reality. All to be destroyed because someone in Washington D.C. apparently doesn't like Brother Stair or me.

Dear reader, I think now is the time to take a "hard look" at the Federal Communications Commission and their policies of total disregard of law and due process; especially the so called seizure laws in which they legally "steal" personal property.

Is this a nation of laws or government brytes? I thought a fair hearing and trial is guaranteed all.

The ship owners plan to seek restitution from the government. Many questions remain.

A radio station, a printing press of the air, has been smashed. Please protest this illegal action by the FCC to your Congressperson. Only Congress can stop the madness.

Allan H. Weiner, Radio Engineer, 507 Violet Avenue, Hyde Park, NY 12538.

Editorial

Welcome to another 'bumper' issue of Pirate Connection. We have just past the Easter weekend and to my surprise the conditions were good and stable with very little fading noted. Especially the UK stations came in very well here! From now on the "Pirate Log" will be replaced by the "48 Report". I more or less kicked Göran from the job, but I don't think he's too depressed about it, because it's in my opinion a 'dirty work'. But somebody has got to do it. Thank you Göran for your enormous work with the logs in Pirate Connection, I feel a great admiration for your efforts! Göran still writes the pirate loggings in "On Air" (issued by Malmö Shortwave Club) an has been doing so for the last 10 years! A nice surprise of the articles I got this time was "The secrets of Norway" by José Anderson, operator of Channel Europe. In his article, many 'secrets' about the Norwegian pirates are revealed. For instance, did you know that Radio Makahari and Christian Broadcasting Network both originate from Norway? Another very interesting feature, the "Hitchhiker's guide to operating a pirate station" (by anonymous author), gives you a thourough description on pirate radio operation, how to start your own station. hints on equipment and how to avoid the authorities etc. Read and enjoy! Lastly, I just got a story about MV Fury, written by the station engineer Allan Weiner himself. The raid FCC carried out against Fury is a very sad story, it ended before it started! However, the case will be taken up in court and hopefully the staff of Fury can win their equipment back. Let's hope that there is still justice in this world! Stefan

Zender Black Eagle was a new appearance to me on WEaster Sunday April 3rd on 6205 kHz in a QSO with Zender Meteoor. The station had a very, very strong signal, probably using several hundreds of watts! If anyone knows the address of this station or have any further info, please contact me at the PC address.

Radio Brod is reported to have closed down on February 28th due to financial troubles.

BP

The well-known Chelmsford maildrop used by some of the UK based pirates, were busted by the police at the end of March. This means that all stations with this address can't be contacted at the moment.

Radio Campogalliano is a new Italian station heard on 1398 kHz.

Citadel Radio International publish an A4 format newssheet with info on the station and other Free Radio news. New to the station is Dave Cooper, ex Empire Radio and Radio Apollo!! Dave is presenting a classic rock show. Send 1 USD or 1 IRC for your own copy. Address: unknown for the moment as the Chelmsford address has closed, but they should have a new address soon. SPZ

Radio Driland is a new German station that was heard by Lars on January 29th on 3918 kHz. The station uses the Wuppertal maildrop address.

Radio Dr. Tim is a relatively new pirate from Germany that was relayed by Ozone on January 30th on 6210 kHz. Contact address is Wuppertal. FRS SPZ

Several Dutch pirates are doing QSOs each Wednesday from 16-18 UTC on 76 metres (±3932 kHz). Radio Pirana International and Radio Fusion International report they will also try to join the QSOs. RB SPZ

A new pirate publication is the Free Radio Info magazine issued by Radio Wahnsinn. It's all in German and number 2 features inside stories on the raid of Radio Orang Utan, interview with Radio Popcorn, latest info on Whansinn activities and a lot more. Sample copy costs 5 DM. For more info, write to Wahnsinn at the Wuppertal maildrop.

Good Music Radio are new from UK and were heard for the first time on January 8th. They broadcast on 6280 kHz with 25 W of power. GMR also broadcast locally on FM with 100 W. You can contact the station by calling +44 850 750002 or by writing to GMR, Towers, Beccles, Suffolk in England. PCH

Green Music Radio International have started regular night-time broadcasts on Saturday nights according to this schedule: 23-0 UTC on 6990 kHz, 0-1 UTC on 3020 kHz and 1-2 UTC on 6990 kHz. The power is 200 W and they have been reported many times on 3020 kHz by different DX-ers throughout Europe. DX-magazine "Contact" also reports the station having been on 6289 kHz on January 9th at 1.00 UTC.

Heavy Dude Radio is currently off air. Something is wrong with the transmitter, probably one of the tubes is broken. Mr Heavy Dude says he will try and come on air as soon as possible, but you may have to wait a while.

International Music Radio - The Voice of Basel was heard via IRRS on February 5th on 7125 kHz. The relays via IRRS will probably continue and the station also reports that they indent to start MW transmissions on 1610 or 1650 kHz.

The well-known Jyväskylä-maildrop that has served most of the Finnish SW-pirates the last copule of years, was raided a while ago by three police officials and one radio inspector. All letters to the stations who only used the Jyväskylä drop should now instead be sent to RWR, Box 220342, 42373 Wuppertal in Germany. Also see the special press release published in this issue.SPZ

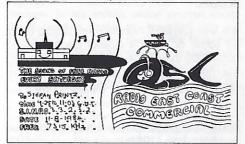

Laser Hot Hits have resumed broadcastina from a few years back and can now be found on 48 metres with sporadic transmissions. First heard on February 13th on 6219 kHz and then again on Easter Sunday April 3rd on 6225 kHz.

As we told you in PC6, Radio Merlin International were raided on January 30th. They lost 2 shortwave transmitters plus the studi! The FM and MW rig was not taken however. RMI have already a new SW transmitter and is due to return very soon!.

Radio News from Free Radio Campaian Germany and ex-staff of the PIN-magazine is now available again and comes in a handy and well-made A5 format with lots of photos and info on offshore, pirate radio and satellite radio. The mag is issued twice a year (February and August) and costs DM15 for a one year subscription. Address: KWFW, Box 220342, 42373 Wuppertal in Germany. LAY Onda Caliente is a new station via Radio Europe on 7294 kHz USB. The first programme went out on March 6th in English, French and German with a male and female DJ. QSL-cards is available via the Wuppertal maildrop.

Radio Orang Utan (c/f PC6) returned to the airwaves only one week after the raid, testing a new transmitter on 6205 kHz! Since then "the monkey" has been heard a handful of times, but the signal strength of the "new" ROU is much weaker than the old one. May we hope that op Freddie will increase power soon! RB SPZ

Radio Review is a new mag from UK, including offshore news and other radio news. Cost is £7 pounds sterling for 4 issues (Europe) or 1.50 pounds for a sample copy. Address: P.O.Box 46, Romford RM1 2QE, England. ACE

Southern Music Radio from New Zealand is soon to be relayed by the Swedish Shortwave Relay Service on 48 metres. The programme will go out as soon as SSRS receives the tape from SMR.

German station Starline Radio and Radio Piraña International had a QSO on Sunday afternoon February 20th on 76 metres at around 18 UTC. After a while, an official utility or coast station came onto the channel, saying that they should leave the band immediately, as 76 metres is "a band for commercial stations only". RPI and Starline then moved from 3927 kHz down to 3900 and continued the QSO. But the auv from the coast station followed and intervened the QSO once again, now telling them that he would report them to some office in central Europe (probably some commission handling international frequency conventions). RPI and Starline then finished the QSO, but shortly after, Starline called CQ on the band again... Op Jorge of RPI is a little bit worried about this incident and says that it will be more wise for the 76 metre pirates to broadcast in LSB just like the HAMs. USB mode is only used by commercial or national utility and coast stations etc. SPZ

Radio Stella International had their transmitters destroyed in a fire. Operator Jock Wilson says they were seriously damaged, but hopes to be back in May with a new relay service on 76 and 39 metres (7500-7700 kHz). Prices are £5 for 1 hour. The transmitter is crystal-controlled and giving an output of 150 W (4807 valves). Address: 82 Pentland Place, Kirkcaldy, Fife KY2 6AQ, Scotland.

Subterranean Sounds returned to 76 metres on Saturday 5th last weekend on 3905 kHz and listeners can expect fairly regular broadcasts on there from now on. A telephone number was announced during the programme and about 10 listeners called 48R JAL

INTERNATIONAL SHORTWAVE BROADCASTING EMERALD RADIO GROUP DUBLIN IRELAND TO STEPHIN DIGNIZ AT LUMI SWENER MANY THANKS FOR YOUR REPORT ON: 16TH SAMUARY 1994 at lotoling on 62-25thz Lesy is price 100 houts Antonnai Windon - 35 for mil. TM. MILLEY.

Long-runner Radio Titanic International has issued a new history info-sheet called "The Complete RTI Story" and it takes you back to the year of 1975 when the station started and tells what happened in the life of RTI to present date. There is also an outlook on the future which says that broadcasts are planned on English bank holidays and occasional Sundays 5 or 6 times a year. It's a very well-made little info booklet and you can order it (2 USD?) by writing to the Wuppertal maildrop.

WGAS announced they were closing down on Sunday March 6th and will instead be concentrating on a new FM project which sometimes may be heard on shortwave! WGAS transmit from Wexford at the eastcoast of Ireland with 120 W and have been noted lately on 6220 kHz. LAY RB SPZ

I just received an interesting letter from my dear friend Artiom in Moscow. He tells that the operator of Radio Without Borders International, Igor, has been very busy with other things than broadcasting recently. Besides, he has had troubles with the antenna. However, RWBI is still alive & kicking! He tried to go on air on March 12th but failed. RWBI celebrated its 3rd birthday in March but unfortunately, they were not able to come on air. However, a new attempt will be made this month (April). So do listen out for RWBI on 76 metres. The pioneer from Russia is still alive!

Swedish Report Service, the S.R.S - we are there for You.

If you hear that the station you are listening to, is mentioning that they are connected to the Swedish Report Service, you know that you can send your receptionreports to the S.R.S, to get in conntact with this station.

As an extra bonus to our Scandinavian DX-ers, we can mention that we are working in co-operation with the Dutch Pirate Radio Service (DPRS). So if you hear a mediumwave-pirate, you can send your reception reports to the S.R.S.

When you write into the S.R.S, you should always remember to include one extra IRC, one extra US-dollar or 5 SEK.

I thought I was hearing things recently when a Radio Prestion popped up on 183 metres. This was actually Radio Noordzee with one of his decoy IDs.

New stations are not so common now on mediumwave what with all the RCD activity and the worsening QRM situation. However, Radio Horizon burst forth onto the band recently in Dutch and English. The address is: Box 108, 7720 AC Dalfsen, The Netherlands.

Flandria is back in the air after his recent brush with the authorities and so too is Tÿdbreker.

The premier MW club of the UK, "The Medium Wave Circle", has recently and suddenly announced that they will no longer accept loggings of Dutch pirates unless they are transmitting a programme. In other words CQ-calls and QSO-contacts are not accepted.

The reason was given as follows: "This is intended to make the logging information of value to other listeners who might seek out the station." What a load of codswallop!!

That might be all very well for regular high power broadcasters but, even for non-pirate DX-signals, a date, time and frequency is no guarantee that you are bound to hear the station. There are just too many variables for that to be so. I suspect the real reason is the clubs general dislike of pirates and the need for more space to print other things which don't lower the tome of the magazine.

Anyway, thank goodness I can still send my logs to Pirate Connection and other pirate publications, where they are appreciated and I get a positive response, rather than the "Oh no, not more bloody pirates" attitude. Well, that's that off my chest, now back to the band.

Try tuning in to 1569 kHz on Sunday afternoons. Radio Soto has a new regular music programme here and reception is quite good in northern Europe.

It looks like there is a third 'Mexico' transmitting on MW. The only information I have at the moment is that his QTH is Twenteland. His voice does sound very familiar though and I suspect this is an established pirate with a change of name.

Conditions on MW have been very poor over the past month, due to some severe disturbances on the sun's surface. However, things should now start to improve as we eagerly await the approaching sunspot minimum, when MW conditions are at their best.

Keep listening. Here are the logs:

PRESSRELEASE

The Free Radio Campaign - Finland Post Office Box 82, FIN-40101 Jyväskylä, Finland has been closed down. No mail sent to that box will reach FRCF any longer. In the future all mail should be sent to FRCF via Right-Wing Radio, P.O.Box 220342, D-42373 Wuppertal, Germany.

All mail to Finnish pirates using the Wuppertal-box have to be sent only via Wuppertal-box. The Finnish stations that now have no other address, can be reached via other Finnish stations using the Wuppertal-box.

The reason for this close-down is a massive raid to the home of the owner of the Box 82 in Jyväskylä, Finland. In the raid 3 policemen and one radioinspector took away a huge amount of papermaterial, letters, receptionreports, radios, etc. That is why it seems impossible to run a P.O.Box in Finland at the moment.

We are down - but not gone. Keep on the fight for the free radio.

Written by: DJ Tex Willer, Right-Wing Radio, P.O.Box 220342, D-42373 Wuppertal, Germany.

Latest news

After several years of absence, popular Dutch Radio Torenvalk was heard on Easter Sunday on 6210 kHz at 14.21 UTC by Jonny. He reported very good signal strengths. David at Pirate Chat also report the station was active on Easter Monday on 6206 kHz at 11.00 UTC. Radio Torenvalk said that they intend to do regular broadcasts from now on. Whether there will be any mediumwave broadcasts is not known. In the mid 80's, Torenvalk was the most active and regular international Dutch pirate on 1094 & 1508 kHz and was very popular among the audience. The address is still Box 94, 7038 ZH Zeddam. NL.

OFFSHORE RADIO

Chris Edwardsi P.O.Box 1514 LONDON W7 2LL ENGLAND

I (Stefan) have to make a stand in this time as Chris didn't send his offshore report to us this time. I guess he's been too busy with the latest Offshore Echo's magazine which just arrived here. More about that issue later.

As reported in great haste last time, the MV Fury was boarded by FCC officials on Wednesday January 19th at 8.30 local time. The vessel was about to leave the harbour of Charleston and sail to the Caribbean and anchor off the coast of Belize during the winter, and then sail on to Spain this spring. The Charleston "Post and Courier" writes in an article published the day after the raid: "Last Friday, agents from the F.C.C. located the source of an illegal broadcast after driving around Charleston in an undercover truck filled with high-tech communications gear. They obtained a court order Tuesday claiming the broadcasts were made from the transmitters aboard the Fury," The FCC rented a crane and removed equipment worth $500,000. In an interview with Allan Weiner by Chris Edwards, Allan says that the raid is tragedy. Without his knowing, somebody made some amateur packet transmissions at the end of December and that started the whole thing. The religious leader and, as he call himself, prophet, Brother R.G. Stair, who has financed most of the project, now says that it is all over, but they will sue the FCC to get the equipment returned. Allan sent in a legal declaration in early February to the Federal Court, stating that no illegal broadcasts were made from the MV Fury. Despite the outcome of a probable future trial against the FCC, Allan says that the MV Fury project is finished: "There's no future for this ship, I'm sorry". He continues to describe his feelings about the raid: "The way I feel now, I'm so sick of radio, how many times can you bang your head against the wall? You build stations, you think you're doing everything right and then something stupid comes along and ruins it. To me this whole situation is worse that what happened with the Sarah, we put it out there. OK, they didn't want it, they'd have killed us all if we'd kept broadcasting because we're such a threat. But at least the fruits of our labour were not violated, we still had the ship, we could decide to sell the thing, we still had the hardware. But this, we couldn't even get out of the harbour, and then the ship is raped. Forgive me, but that's how I feel and how everyone else feels. Brother Stair stuck hundreds of thousands of dollars into this thing."

Radio Brod off the Yugoslavian coast has stopped broadcasting due to lack of money. Whether the ECC is intending to continue supporting the ship is not known. Hopefully Chris will bring further details about Brod in next issue.

Offshore Echo's have just published their March issue from which the news above was taken. It celebrates both the Caroline 30th birtday and Offshore Echo's own 20th birtday by memorial articles and newspaper cuttings. It also includes a feature on the MV Fury with a very interesting interview with station manager Allan Weiner. Highly recommended and a must for all fans of offshore radio! Sample copy you get for £3.60 or $5. Address: Offshore Echo's, Box 1514, London W7 2LL, England.

THE 7415 REPORT

Chris Lobdell P.O.Box 146 STONEHAM MA 02180, USA

Well folks, here we are again with another report from America. Activity on the pirate bands has been a bit slow due to poor propagation conditions, but things have picked up again in the past couple of weeks.

WPIG - Rest In Peace. Yes, this station was busted by the FCC on the 19th of February. Since early January, Ira the pig had been broadcasting from the "Bundymobile" at Bum's Lane in Woodbridge, New Jersey. After making his latest broadcast on February 19th, he was paid a visit by an agent of the New York City FCC office along with local police. His transmitter was not taken, just "inspected" but he was warned not to operate out of band again. Suprisingly enough, this "mentally challenged" individual has a Ham license. So I guess we'll have to say goodbye to WPIG, Radio Pigs, Inc.

Radio Doomsday (Wellsville), one of the most active stations during December and January, continued to broadcast during February and March. They were noted on the 22nd of Jan. on 7405U at 2320 and on March 20th on 7385U at 0144. This station's operator, Nemesis, has created a bit of an uproar by issuing no-data letters in response to some reception reports. Not a good practice if you ask me.

He Man Radio (Blue Ridge Summit) was active on the 6th of February at 1430 on 7415U. He Man was complaining about transmitting from a frozen hillside in Ohio. He also related a story about meeting a pretty young woman in a cornfield and getting drunk with her. Radio Gumby International came on over He Man, but soon signed off after realizing what he had done.

CRSM-Radio Scottish Montreal (Blue Ridge Summit/Merlin). DJ Rob Roy hosted another interesting show on the 12 of February at 2200 on a frequency of 7425 kHz. Programming included information on New Zealand, upcoming festivities in the Montreal area. Rob also thanked the Belgium International Relay Service for the European relays of CRSM.

The North American Pirate Relay Service (NAPRS) (Wellsville) continued to be quite active. On the 5th of February, they relayed the European station, Radio Titantic International on 7412 kHz at 2230. On the 13th of February, they relayed the Swedish pirate Heavy Dude Radio on 7415 kHz from 2230-2300, then right after that, the children's free radio station, Radio Lollipop was aired! Radio Stella International was relayed on March 5th from 2230 to 2300 on 7413 kHz. Jock Wilson was promoting his new 150 watt AM transmitter to see if any one wanted to purchase air time.

Wire Line Radio (Blue Ridge Summit) has active again, using their 2 kw AM transmitter! They were heard on February 13th on 7415 kHz from 2020 UTC, again at 2120 and around 2300 UTC. Programming included music by Steely Dan, Suzanne Vega and talk about Full Disclosure magazine. He said he was getting bored with pirating and might retire.

WJLR (Blue Ridge Summit) always seems to broadcast a nice well modulated USB signal and this time was no exception. DJ Dave Stone was heard on the 19th of February at 2300 UTC on 7415 kHz. He said the american people should throw the current politicians "out the door in 94" when election time comes. QSLs were to be sent out soon he said. WJLR was also heard again on March 5th at 2320 UTC on 7417.5

kHz.

Solid Rock Radio (Wellsville). Heard again after a short vacation. J. BeBop Brown was noted on 7415U at 2345 on February 19th, just after WJLR signed off. Listener's letters were read, and the pirate publication, The ACE was heavily promoted. The signal started to fade after 0005.

Black Liberation Radio (Wellsville) made an appearance via the transmitting facilities of Solid Rock Radio on 1 April at 0030 on 7465 kHz. The program was an interesting one on the New World Order and the massacre at Waco, TX. Black Liberation Radio is an FM station but was relayed by Solid Rock Radio's Dr. Love. Tapes of the show were offered for sale for $6.00.

Friday, April 1st was April Fools Day here in the USA and XEROX/Radio Duplicado made it's annual appearance! Noted at 0030 and 0145 on 7385 kHz in the USB mode. The DJ, Bart Sambo played Jamacian tunes and Andean music. IDs were in both Spanish and English.

Radio USA (Wellsville) was noted signing on 7415 at 1739 on April 2nd. Mr. Blue Sky and Joe King hosted the program of thrash punk rock music. Reception was poor here in the northeastern USA.

Radio Esoterica (Stoneham) returned to the air after an absence. They were noted with strong AM signals on 7385 kHz from 2212 to 2242 utc on April 2nd. It was part one of two featuring a history of the '60s. Programming included music by Pearls Before Swine and a children's radio drama called Space Cadets was aired. I can't wait for part two to see if the kids are attacked by the UFO, hi!

Trans-Atlantic cooperations. During the first months of 1994 several "out of US origin stations" were relayed in the USA and seemed to have been quite successful there! Here are the facts: Southern Music Radio on 7435 on January 29th via the NAPRS. Radio Titanic International on January 30th on 7408 and 7410, on February 3rd, 5th, 13th on 7415 via the NAPRS and on February 12th on 7417 via WREC. Heavy

Dude Radio on February 26th on 7415 and last year November 14th on 6295 via the NAPRS. A Radio Lollipop tape were heard too each weekend in February. Most of the shows were made in the USB mode. the rest in the AM mode! At least Radio Titanic gave some more information about the results: They received more than 32 reports and the operators learnt that there is a long distance reception up to 2000 km and more when there were the relays in the afternoon local time in the USA and Canada (which is 23.00 UTC or 5 pm in the afternoon there!)! The auestion is why the Euro's do not try Europe's local time $(\pm 17.00 \, \text{UTC})$ for transmissions in the 41 metre band or in the 75 metre band as well? There is a good chance for long distance reception on 41 metres and normal local reception in the 75 metre band! Otherwise we think the US pirates aren't aware about the overcrowded bands here in Europe most of the day! Finally on April 2nd, 1994 2 US stations were heard in Europe with a fair Trans-Atlantic reception and a distance of about 6000 km: XEROX/Radio Duplicado on 7385 (appeared each year as a spoof station on April Fool's Day)at around 00.40 UTC and the North American Pirate Relay Service (N.A.P.R.S.) on 7415 kHz at around 06.00 UTC!

At the present time best reception for US stations is from 23.00 to 06.00 UTC on 7385, 7415 and 7485 kHz in the USB mode - the frequencies are clean except 7415 from 04.30 to 05.30 UTC when there is the VOA Botswana relay! Please give the stations a try for Trans-Atlantic reception or try it yourself to reach the USA and Canada! The best indicator for good long skip conditions are the CHU time signals from Canada - the reception is possible when the CHU can be well heard on 7335 kHz!

More US tests to come: In April the NAPRS hopes to test each and every Saturday morning on 05.35 UTC onwards on one of the above frequencies! Don't mix US pirate signals with Central American fishing boats talking Spanish in USB mode - but when you can hear them the reception might be possible for all other small transmitters!

The secrets of Norway

Throughout many years, Norway has been considered a place not meant for pirates. Still, through all these years, a number of Norwegian Free Radio enthusiasts have secretly been producing real pirate programmes for Europe from the land of the Vikings and the Midnight sun. You can read about them here...

As far as I know, it all started with Radio Confusion in the mid-80s. Usually, their programmes were relayed by Radio Mirage, but the guy behind Confusion also made a number of programmes for other stations have fun on around Europe. He's actually a real nice guy, as most of my shortwave! dear pirate friends are... I've been talking to him a couple of times in the past, and he is now and considering a comeback on shortwave with his music- and Radio DX-programmes via other shortwave pirate stations. He Makahari!! could be contacted via my address (in Wuppertal).

Now, let's

I've also heard rumours of a station called Radio Viking, but whether this really was a Norwegian station, or it has existed at all, is unknown to me. If anyone knows about this station and wants to share it with me, I would be happy!

Later on, a new pirate station came on the air from Norway. Perhaps a bit surprising to some, Christian Pirate Broadcasting Network (CPBN), is actually a Norwegian Free Radio station. They haven't been very active for over a year now, but the people behind this station have told me that they will return to the airwaves on 48 metres in the future. CPBN is using their own transmitter for shortwave, capable of about 80 watts. They may be contacted via my dear friend Stefan Printz in Lund, and you all know his address, don't you?

Another surprise from Norway is Radio Makahari. You might have heard this funny guy on shortwave, with his strange voice and programmes made up from different Channel and Children's commercials! Makahari is now being relayed via the transmitter of CPBN, so he doesn't have his own transmitter yet. You could listen to his funny programmes during Christmas 1993; and as he has told me, quite a number of reports have been received for these programmes. The station name has often been confused with "Mata Hari", which is quite wrong. The guy actually has rather strong ties to New Zealand, and in his first programmes one could hear Polynesian music, which surely is quite unusual for European pirate stations! Since he borrowed the equipment of CPBN during the first period of broadcasting, he could also be heard QSOing with other Free Radio stations. The address for Makahari is the Wuppertal maildrop.

The next station to join the line-up of the Norwegian pirates was my own station, Channel Europe. For the moment, I don't have my own transmitter and therefore my programmes have to be relayed via other stations. The station was formed during Christmas 1992, and my first programme was carried by Radio Fusion International in May 1993. Next, I had a programme via the Scandinavian Broadcasting Corporation, and on the 12th of September, the perhaps most well-known programme so far was relayed by Radio Delta, Ruurlo on 6200 kHz. For this single programme I received some 60 reports, which I consider as very good! A total of 80 reports have been received for all my programmes. Since the Delta relay I haven't had any programmes, but I hope to be back sometime during spring or summer of this year with more great music from the last decade...

Now over to the last pirate to join the lineup of Norwegian pirates so far, Free Radio Norway. You all probably have been reading about this new pirate, opening the eve of most Free Radio enthusiasts that pirates excisted in Norway as well. Free Radio Norway is actually operating its own transmitter of about a 100 watts, and its first programme was transmitted at the end of December 1993. Signals have been reported very good all over Europe, and the operator of this station who just calls himself Dag Johnsen, is really satisfied with the response. The station has been mentioned in most magazines taking pirate DX seriously. In spite of this, he will be on the air only occasionally because of security reasons. He likes to promote Norwegian culture and music, and after the Winter Olympic Games at Lillehammer that might not be very difficult... Most Norwegian music might not be too known among you Free Radio enthusiasts, but he hopes that you will send him your reception reports anyway. The address to write to for Free Radio Norway is the Wuppertal maildrop.

Now a little about the future for pirates here in my country. I've been talking to a couple of guys here, and they are really enthusiastic about the pirate idea. They might very well get their own transmitters and surf the airwayes sometime in the future... I will try to update you all on the situation in Norway via well-known Free Radio magazines as Pirate Chat and Pirate Connection, but if you have more questions about Free Radio in Norway, please write me, or any of the other pirates mentioned in this article.

Free Radio is certainly not forgotten in Norway. We just lay our heads a bit lower than certain other nationalities (e.g. the Swedes...) So tune in to Free Radio from Norway on shortwave, tune in to the real fun, an alternative...

Safari Update

Radio Safari Int. P.O. Box 22 03 42 42373 Wuppertal Germany

Number 1 - 1994, Volume 1.

Free of any charge!

Hello, all Free Radio freaks out there, and welcome to this very first issue of Safari Update! My name is Bruce Sailor, and I'm living somewhere in the part of the world that we all like to call Europe. I'm also the man behind Radio Safari International, that provides you with mostly popular dance music, but I would also like to play your favorite records on my station, so just send me a letter at the Wuppertal maildrop!

About Safari:

Radio Safari International was founded sometime in 1993 (I can't remember when!), and since that time we have been relayed via the Swedish Shortwave Relay Service (SSRS) for quite a number of times. Because of this, a lot of people around Europe seems to believe that I am Swedish. Well, maybe I am, but I could also live in any other of the about 40 nations in Europe!!!

When it comes to languages, I understand (of course) English very well, but I am also capable of reading (not writing!) some German. The second DJ of Safari is called DJ Roger Waters, so you may guess that he's a big fan of Pink Floyd! He could also be named as "DJ Pink Floyd the second"...

The SSRS is using a transmitter of about a 100 Watts, and they are situated somewhere in Sweden, I can tell you. If you want to contact them, please use the Wuppertal maildrop.

I can tell you that the Swedish Report Service (SRS) claims that they are authorized to be our maildrop, but that is not true. Our only maildrop is the Wuppertal one.

Listener response:

So far, Safari has received some 46 reception reports from the following countries (number of reports from each country): Germany (16), Sweden (16), Norway (4), Finland (3), United Kingdom (2), France (2), Lithuania (2) and Czech Republic (1). I hope to receive reports from all European countries, because I love reading the enthusiastic letters from all my pirate friends out there!

Free Radio scene:

There has been reported an increasing activity on 76 metres around in the afternoon from 15 hours UTC and onward in the weekends. I myself have heard both Weekend Music Radio Piraña Int., Radio Makahari and Live Wire Radio here with a not too bad signal strength. According to some pirates I've been talking to, the reason is the increasing noise later in the evening/night on this metre band.

On 6290 kHz, I have heard an Arab station around 1530 UTC. This could be very annoying to the free stations that broadcast in the nearby such as Radio Caroline on 6295 kHz. So get lost, you Arab!

From the Baltics, rumours of a new pirate station have emerged. Baltic Coast Radio seems to have been relayed a couple of times via Heavy Dude Radio, and their address is in Lithuania. I've never heard this station, how about you others out there?

In Scandinavia, quite a lot of things are happening according to my sources. You all know the SSRS, but in addition the Scandinavian Broadcasting Company has been relaying some stations. Radio Fusion International from Sweden could also be back in a while after a long break.

Free Radio Norway also seems to be a new project, actually broadcasting from Norway as far as I've heard. Also from Norway, Radio Confusion has been reported to prepare a comeback after some 10 years off the air.

From the UK, I've heard that Radio Stella Int. is having some problems with their transmitters, and therefore has been off the air for quite some while.

Weekend Music Radio had a great transmission on both 3945 and 6210/6280 kHz during Christmas. Actually they were on the air all day, providing good reception at my place. Radio London Int. was heard via WMR on the same day, on 6210 kHz.

Some logs from today, the 9th of January: 6210 R. Diamond, 0945 UTC. 6238 Belgian Int. Relay Service, 0950 UTC. 6255 R. East Coast Commercial, 1202 UTC. 6286 Swedish Shortwave Relay Service, 1156 UTC. 6286 Radio Safari Int., (via SSRS) 1236 UTC. 6288 The Fox AM, 0955 UTC. 11401 R. Waves Int., 1213 UTC.

Last minute info: A new station was heard last night (January 9th) on 76 metres, 3912 kHz. They gave station IDs like "This is Shinistar Radio from Tokyo", something that sounded rather strange to me. I expect this one to be some kind of an imitation of a certain Scandinavian station, but I'm not sure. Anyone who knows more about this one?

Send your logs and news to Safari Update!

Well, it is about time for me to say goodbye for this time. I'd be happy to receive comments and contributions for this newsheet, so please send your info to our Wuppertal maildrop!

Just a short reminder of our joke contest that is going on at Safari at the moment. Send in your best jokes to us, and we will promise to read them all on the air as well as publish the best ones in this magazine!

Bruce Sailor, January 1994.

THE HITCHHIKER'S GUIDE TO OPERATING A PIRATE STATION

Revision 2, March 1994

Preface

In a world of Increasing regulation and control, deviance from established modes of behavior is tolerated less and less. New ways are constantly being discovered by the government to discourage such behavior. In addition to being regulated by the government, much of the broadcast community is controlled either directly or indirectly by a small group of people who use them to further their own agendas. Pirate radio is controlled neither by the government nor by special interests and so enjoys an unencumbered ability to present alternative expressions to its listeners.

The operation of a pirate radio station is likely to create some controversy if its audience is substantial enough. This controversy is likely to attract the attention of the authorities who are less than amused when people exercising their First Amendment rights present ideas not approved of by the establishment. Thus, it behooves those who would operate a pirate radio station to prepare for the inevitable attempts by the law enforcement community to apprehend the responsible individuals and to shut the operation down. This exposition is written with the goal of making law enforcement's objectives just a little bit more challenging to realize.

Basic station operation

Careful choices regarding station locations, duration of broadcasts, time of broadcasts, and frequency of broadcasts need to be made in order to minimizes the chances of being caught by the authorities.

Under no circumstances should you ever attempt to operate a pirate radio station from a building you regularly frequent (e.g. home or office). This is asking to be caught. You should choose between operation from a vehicle or man-portable operation.

If you choose to broadcast from within a vehicle, several factors should be considered when choosing a broadcast location. Obviously, greater elevation relative to your surroundings will result in superior signal propogation and thus better coverage. However, you must also keep in mind at least two other important details.

The location you broadcast from should not arouse the suspicion of any passing vehicles, police or otherwise. This can be accomplished in several ways. A location that is well hidden from all other vehicles and far enough away from any buildings that might be occupied is one way to avoid unwanted attention. In many cases, it may be more practical to find a location that is visible to other vehicles or people but does not arouse suspicion. For instance, in addition to having the potential to be a great transmitting location, overlooks are often frequented by sightseers both during the day and evenings. Regardless of where you choose to broadcast from, think about where you would go should the need for a hasty retreat ever become necessary.

In order to locate "undesirable" radio transmissions, the authorities will utilize direction finding (DF for short) radio equipment. DF equipment utilizes a highly directional antenna coupled to a tuner and a field strength meter. After the desired frequency has been selected with the tuner, the operator rotates the DF antenna until he obtains a peak reading on the field strength meter and then notes the heading the antenna is pointed in. Next, a vector is drawn on a map beginning at the operator's current location and extending in the direction of the DF antenna's heading. Assuming the "undesirable" radio transmission hasn't moved, successive readings from different locations should intersect at the origin of the transmission. In practice, because of limitations on the accuracy of the equipment, it is not possible to precisely determine the location of the transmitter from the first set of readings. Usually, a second, and often third set of readings will be necessary before the location of the transmitter can be narrowed down sufficiently to allow a ground search for it.

In order to thwart DF equipment, you must be willing to either limit the length of your transmissions such that the authorities have insufficient time to locate them, broadcast from a location the authorities will be unwilling or unable to search, or operate from a mobile vehicle. Each of these approaches involves a different set of tradeoffs.

If you are fortunate enough to live in a location with significant areas of forestation nearby, these can often be ideal locations from which to stage your broadcasts. At nighttime, the authorities are very unlikely to venture into the woods in order to locate a pirate radio station. They are far too vulnerable in such situations and generally will not pursue a suspect unless the odds are overwhelmingly in their favor. Rather, they will cover any obvious means into or out of the woods (such as trails) or any roadways in the general vicinity of the broadcasting and search any suspicious individuals or vehicles they discover during a period of time following the broadcast. By taking a few simple precautions, broadcasting from within a forested area of reasonable size can be the best alternative to mobile operation or severely time-limited broadcasts.

Before selecting a location to broadcast from in a forested area, it is important to visit the location during the day. This will give you the opportunity to check out the potential site in detail and scout around for the best ways to get to the site and to get away from the site quickly should the need arise. You should pick a location not too close to any roads or paths and make sure you will be able to find it in the dark. Relatively high points with a line-of-sight to your listeners are other important things to look for. You should also think about where you is going to put your antenna. Is there a tree nearby that will make an ideal placement? Can you climb it at night without risk of falling? How much coax will you need to reach the antenna from your broadcast location?

After finding a good location to make your broadcasts from, there will be a strong temptation to use that location over and over again for future broadcasts. Unless you wants to be caught, resist this temptation. The authorities may have located a site you have used previously, and could be lying in wait nearby for the next time you are scheduled to broadcast. Also, when you have finished your broadcast and are packing up, keep in mind that anything you leave behind could help the authorities in their quest to find you and bring you to "justice." Assume the authorities will scour the area shortly after you leave it so make sure nothing is left behind for them. If there are smooth surfaces around, don't forget about fingerprints. Either wear gloves during your broadcast, or spray everything you might have touched with degreaser before leaving.

Avoiding the authorities

Once the authorities become aware of your operation, they may attempt to apprehend you in the middle of a broadcast. In order to accomplish this, they must first find you and then capture you. Proper preparation and planning will make these tasks much more difficult for them.

The authoritles rely heavily upon radio communication. As a result, it pays to purchase a decent scanner and become familiar with their operating procedures. Lists of frequencies used by law enforcement in your area are available at Radio Shack and other stores. Books are also are available which list federal frequency assignments. You should spend time going through such books and making a list of frequencies you think may be used in the event a search for your station were to be conducted. Don't forget to include mutual-aid frequencies in your list as they are often used when different enforcement agencies want to coordinate with one another. You should spend some time in the general area you will be broadcasting from listening to the scanner to determine which frequencies on your list are appropriate to listen to and prune the remainder from your list. While it is generally better to leave a questionable frequency on your list, irrelevant channels may reduce the probability you will hear something important on another channel.

Whenever possible, you should take along someone you trust to your broadcast site and have them stand patrol. They should wear dark (black or camoflage) clothing and locate themselves where they have a good view of any obvious routes of approach to your broadcast area. A pair of walkie-talkies is ideal for keeping in touch if you will be separated by more than a few tens of feet. Keep in mind that your transmissions could be monitored so watch what you say. Don't use names or other information which could give away your identity or location. If you are using flashlights, purchase some red tailight tape at an auto parts store and cover the lens with it to reduce your chances of being seen and to maintain your night vision.

If there are just a couple of obvious routes leading to your broadcast location, you might consider setting up perimeter alorms along these routes. Various party noise-makers are commonly available at toy stores which make a bang when a string to which they are attached is pulled. Using some thin wire, tie one of these noise-makers between a pair of trees through which the route you want to alarm passes through. Make sure the wire is obscured as much as possible to minimize it's detection by any intruders. Make sure you seuch alarms far enough away to give you enough time to make your escape but close enough that you will be able to easily hear them.

The key to successfully escaping from the authorities can be summarized as follows: DON'T PANIC. Remaining calm is essential. You should plan several routes of escape beforehand and consider what you will do with your equipment. If time allows, you will want to pack it up and take it with you. If time doesn't allow, hiding it may be your best option. This might be as simple as covering it with something to camoflage it. Or, perhaps you found a good place to set it up that already takes advantage of natural cover and it is pretty well hidden to begin with. Assuming you are operating at night, it helps enormously to wear dark clothing and remove any shiny objects such as jewelry or watches to your pockets.

You will likely become aware of the authorities designs for you through one of two means. You will hear evidence of a search in progress on your scanner or you will detect their physical presence. In the former case, you may have enough time to pack up your equipment and make a cautious escape. You might decide instead to leave your equipment hidden somewhere and come back later for it when it's safer. Plastic garbage bags are ideal for protecting equipment left in the woods for a few days. In the latter case, remaining calm and using your head could make the difference between being caught with your pants down and just having a close call.

The Instinctive reaction to the presence (Impending or actual) of the authorities is to flee. The authorities know this and if they are even marginally competent will have taken steps to maximize their chances of capturing individuals employing this method of escape. Unless they have obviously seen you and are actively pursuing you, you should stop and force yourself to look around and consider what options are open to you. Approximately how many people are after you? Are they far enough away that you can move away from them without them seeing or hearing you? Perhaps it would be best to try to remain hidden until they are far enough away that you can better risk slipping away?

Unless you are certain that your vehicle has not been detected by the authorities (because it was extremely well hidden, or parked with a number of other vehicles, for instance), then do not approach it after your presence has been detected. It is quite possible that the authorities will have discovered it and left someone behind to watch it. By itself, the vehicle is little more than weak circumstantial evidence to connect you with any crime, but if you are caught returning to it (especially with equipment), you will be screwed. You should have thought previously about other means of getting home if there was trouble and proceed with those plans.

Dealing with the authorities (what to do when you get caught with your pants down)

Getting caught is always something you should strive to avoid, but the smart pirate will be prepared for it anyway. Knowing what to do and what not to do can make a big difference in terms of how much trouble you could get in if you are caught.

If you are caught by the authorities, you should not automatically assume that they are aware of your activities. Chances are, they are interested in you for something completely different – trespassing, suspicious appearances, etc. Be calm an cooperate with the authorities but don't admit to doing anything illegal, especially broadcasting.

If they question you about the presence of antennas of radio equipment, tell them that you are an amateur radio operator. If they ask your what you are doing with the equipment, you should tell them you are doing some experiments in radio wave propogation. With any luck, that will satisfy their curiosity about the radio equipment.

At some point, you will learn why they have stopped you and it will become clear whether they intend to arrest you or let you go. As soon as you discover that they intend to arrest you, there are only four words that should come out of your mouth from that point on. "I want a lawyer." You should say nothing else until you has contacted a lawyer and discussed your situation with him.

If they don't arrest you, you should calmly leave the area and be prepared to lay low for a while. You should consider ending your broadcasting activities for a while, or perhaps broadcasting from another county with a different set of authorities. If nothing else, you should consider using a different vehicle to do your broadcasts from (or go manportable) and stay away from the location where you were originally hassled.

If you have made an attempt to evade the authorities prior to being caught and the authorities are aware of this, you should expect a lengthly interrogation and search. Again, you should be caim and cooperate physically unless you enjoy pain. It may help to tell the authorities that you were unaware of their identity and were startled by them and so ran away. If this can be told in a convincing manner, it may go a long way to convincing the authorities that you have nothing to hide.

Even if they find the broadcasting equipment, you should not admit to violating the law. You can again claim that you are an amateur radio operator conducting experiments in radio wave propogation. Unless they have prior knowledge of the presence of illegal broadcasting activities, there is an excellent chance the authorities won't be able to determine that you are using the radio equipment to make illegal broadcasts, and so will continue to look for other indication that you have engaged in other illegal activities.

Eventually, they will have to decide whether they are going to arrest you or let you go. Once again, if they decide to arrest you, only four words should be spoken from that point until you have had the opportunity to discuss your case with your attorney: "I want a lawyer." If they let you go, you should calmly collect your equipment and leave the area. If they want to keep your equipment, you should ask for an itemized receipt and express your objections to their confiscation of your private property. They will probably insist on keeping your equipment, but you should insist on getting a receipt for it from them if you ever want to see it again.

If a representative from the FCC is present along with the authorities, it is a good bet that they know what you are up to. Still, it is very important to not admit to doing anything illegal. You should tell the authorities that they are free to inspect your "amateur radio" equipment (unless you are in your home and they don't have a warrant, they are free to do this anyway, but by telling them this you are showing them that you are being cooperative).

If they try to con you into admitting guilt by asking you questions such as, "Are you aware that operation of this equipment is in violation of FCC rules?" don't answer the question. Unask the question by saying something like, "This is amateur radio equipment." which sounds like an answer, but isn't. If you can't think up anything like this, inform the questioner in a polite but firm manner that you cannot help in with his questions at this time and then stick to your guns.

It's probably a good idea to carry the name and phone number of an attorney specializing in criminal law with you whenever you are involved in such activities. Attorneys are very useful when it comes to reducing the police's likelihood of violating your civil rights and they can arrange to have you balled out promptly as well.

Equipment list for portable operation

A number of factors go into the selection of a power source. Transmitter power and maximum duration of broadcasts are the primary factors. Portability, expense, and reusability are other factors. Most pirate radio transmitters are going to be battery powered, and so the rest of this section will discuss issues involved in selecting a battery power source for your operation.

The storage capacity of batteries is commonly measured in amp-hours (abbreviated AH). AH ratings are usually measured with a 20-hour reference point. If a battery is rated at 20 AH, this means it can deliver 1 ampere into a load for 20 hours. If it's rated at 10 AH, it can deliver 1/2 ampere into a load for 20 hours. If a higher load is placed on the battery, its AH rating will generally decrease. For instance, a battery rated at 30 AH at 1.5 ampere load (20 hours of operation) might only be rated at 24 AH if an 8 amp load is placed on it (24/8 = 3 hours of operation).

In order to determine how many amp-hours of energy you need for your operation, we're going to make use of two formulas. The first states that power is equal to the product of voltage and current. The second states that energy is equal to the product of power and time. We're also going to assume that your transmitter is 50% efficient (1/2 of the power it consumes makes it to the antenna).

- Multiply your output power by two to obtain an estimate for the amount of power your transmitter consumes from it's power source.
- Divide the number computed in step 1 by the battery voltage (typically 12 volts) to obtain an estimate for the amount of current your transmitter consumes.
- Multiply the number computed in step 2 by the maximum number of hours you want to be able to operate your transmitter before recharging or replacing your battery.
- 4. If the number of hours of operation you desire is significantly less than 20 (as would typically be the case), add about 20% to the number computed in step 3 above to account for the reduced rating of the battery under a higher load.

The number computed in step 4 above represents the smallest number of amp hours you need from a battery to achieve operation of your transmitter for the specified amount of time.

If you require less than 5-10 AH or so of energy, one excellent power source to consider are sealed lead-acid gel-cells. These are available from a number of distributors (DigiKey, for instance) for under $25 or so and can be recharged hundreds of time with an inexpensive automotive battery trickle-charger (don't use more than 1 amp of charging current and stop charging when the battery voltage rises to about 13.8 volts or the battery starts to get warm).

If you require between 10-25 AH or so of energy, a power source worth considering are motorcycle batteries. These are available from motorcycle stores and even Sear's automotive centers for under $50. They can also be recharged with an inexpensive automotive battery trickle charger. One down side to these batteries is their liquid electrolyte. They can leak electrolyte if they are not kept upright or subjected to a lot of shock. The electrolyte is corrosive and will damage whatever it comes in contact with. If this is a problem, sealed lead-acid gel-cells are still available at these higher energy densities for a few dollars more but are generally a bit heavier than their liquid electrolyte cousins.

If you require more than 25 AH or so of energy, you're looking at automotive batteries. The cost is under $75, and they are available with energies from 30 to over 100 AH. You could also run a couple of motorcycle batteries in parallel to double the energy rating, but that is usually not as cost effective as getting an automotive battery. Even better are the deep-cycle marine batteries which can be drained and recharged many more times than an equivalent automotive battery. Expect to pay a bit more for these batteries, however.

If you are running more than 15 watts or so of output power, make sure you use heavy wire to connect the power amplifier to the battery with and keep the length of wire as short as is practical. 16 gauge wire should be sufficient if you keep the lengths short for power levels up to 50 watts. For more than 50 watts or power cord lengths of more than a few feet, use 14 gauge or thicker wire for optimum performance. Failure to do this will result in significant voltage drops occurring in the power cord which will reduce the voltage available to the power amplifier and reduce its power output.

It is advisable to buy a cheap analog voltmeter that can be clipped onto the battery during a broadcast to monitor its condition. Any sudden drop in voltage across the battery indicates it is discharged, and measures should then be taken to end the broadcast or use another power source. Digital voltmeters are harder to read from a distance or at night and are more expensive.

Transmitting Equipment

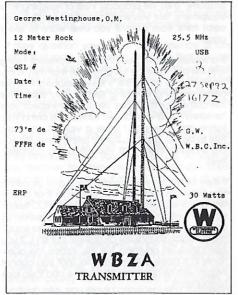

Obviously, you'll need an FM transmitter. A number of kits are available. Kits that run off of 12 VDC are most convenient owing to the ready availability of 12 volt batteries. Ramsey sells an inexpensive transmitter (the FM-10a) that is a suitable transmitter. For a bit more money, Free Radio Berkeley sells a much more powerful kit. And for still more money, Panaxis Productions sells a PLL-controlled kit.

If you want your signal to propagate for more than a few miles (more than 1/2 a mile in the case of the Ramsey kit), you will need one or more power amplifiers. Free Radio Berkeley sells amplifier kits, and Panaxis Productions sells plans for amplifier kits. In addition, the Ramsey PA-1 2-meter amateur power amplifier can be easily modified for operation on the FM broadcast band. See the FM-10 FAQ for details.

Antennas

A good antenna is absolutely essential to getting the most out of your transmitter. Nothing can affect your signals propogation so dramatically as the antenna. Just replacing a 1/4 wave ground plane antenna with a 5/8 wave ground plane antenna can increase your range by 40%!

Some of the factors you will want to consider when selecting an antenna include whether your station is operating in a man-portable environment or from a vehicle. Also of great importance is where your listeners are relative to you. If they are all roughly in one direction away from your transmitting location, you can utilize a beam antenna with a lot of gain that will really boost your signal. If they are all around you, however, you will probably want to use an omnidirectional antenna such as a 5/8 wave ground plane antenna to reach the most listeners.

A detailed discussion of antennas is beyond the scope of this exposition. The ARRL publishes a book titled "The ARRL Antenna Book" which provides a wealth of information on designing and building a wide variety of portable antennas (both omnidirectional and beam) suitable for use on the FM broadcast band.

Whatever antennas you wind up using should be checked with an SWR meter for proper operation. The SWR meter-is connected between your transmitter and antenna and will tell you if your antenna is resonating on your transmitting frequency. If it is, you will get a low SWR reading (less than 2:1). If the reading is greater than about 2:1, your antenna is probably improperly adjusted and you should adjust it before you begin using it. Radio Shack and amateur radio stores are good sourced for SWR meters. Some of the more expensive models also read power output, though these are usually only accurate on amateur bands.

Make sure you purchase enough coax cable to allow you to place your antenna a reasonable distance from your transmitting equipment. R6-88 is adequate for short runs of cable (say, less than 25 feet), but higher quality cable such as RG-8X (mini-8) or RG-8 should be used if longer runs are needed. Some people swear by Belden 9913 which is even lower loss than RG-8, but it is expensive and unnecessary for cable runs of under 100 feet or so.

Audio

Some radio stations will want the ability to broadcast prerecorded material from a tape or CD as well as live material from a microphone. A mixer is an essential piece of equipment for such operation. Small, battery powered mixer decks are inexpensive and available from Radio Shack. By connecting them between your microphone, CD player, tape player, and transmitting equipment you will be able to switch between any of several sources or mix them together.

If you want to use a portable CD player, bear in mind the expected battery life of a fully charged cell, and make sure you bring an extra if you plan a long broadcast. Likewise for a walkman. Also, you will need an assortment of patch cables to connect your CD player, walkman, microphone, and mixer together. Once again, Radio Shack is a good source for premade cables of this type.

Miscellaneous

It is advisable to bring along an FM radio. This will allow you to monitor your transmissions to make sure you are getting good modulation and you are tuned to the frequency you want to be. To check your modulation, tune between your operating frequency and the frequency of another local station and compare volume levels. When the average volume level is about the same, you're modulation is probably about right.

A piece of foam or other material upon which to place electronic equipment to keep it away from dirt and rocks is advisable. It is also good for sitting on.

Strong, thin cord is handy for tying up your antenna in a nearby tree or other tall structure.

Headlamps (head-mounted flashlights) are invaluable for nighttime broadcasting. Purchase some red taillight-repair tape at your local auto supply store and cover the lens with it to turn the beam red and thus preserve your night vision.

Don't forget to bring along a bottle of water and some snacks to eat during your broadcast, especially if it is to be a long one.

Security

Buy yourself a decent scanner. Then, get a copy of local, state, and federal frequency assignments for your area. Program the scanner with the local police, sheriff's department, mutual aid frequencies, and anything else you think might is relevant. Spend some time monitoring the authorities to become familiar with their operating practices on the radio.

A partner can be an invaluable aid during a pirate radio broadcast. Make sure he is someone you can trust! While one person operates the radio equipment, the other person can monitor the scanner and watch the perimeter for intruders. Walkie Talkies are an ideal way for the DJ to stay in touch with his security. CB walkie-talkies are OK for short range broadcasts, but 2-meter or 70-centimeter amateur radio "HTs" are much better albeit more expensive. Most of these can be modified to operate outside of amateur bands where you're less likely to be monitored and have significantly greater range than CB walkie-talkies. Plus they're smaller physically and require smaller antenns than the CB walkie-talkies.

Sources of Equipment and Additional Information

- FM-10 FAQ This file contains a wealth of information on modifying the Ramsey FM-10 transmitter, modifying the Ramsey PA-1 RF-amp to work on the FM broadcast band, making filters, and more. It is occasionally posted to the usenet newsgroup alt.radio.pirate, and is also available for anonymous fip from dgrtp.dg.com in the fm10 directory.
- Ramsey Kits These are available at many electronics stores. They are best purchased locally with cash, but if you can't locate one nearby, you can order them direct from Ramsey at: Ramsey Electronics, Inc., 793 Canning Parkway, Victor, NY 14564, (716) 924-4560.
- FRB Kits Free Radio Berkeley sells FM transmitter and amplifier kits and are rumored to have AM transmitter kits in the works. If you are local to the SF Bay Area, your best bet is to contact them directly and arrange to pick up a kit in person. If you deal with them via mail, you may have to wait several months before your kit arrives. Free Radio Berkeley, 1442A Walnut Street #406, Berkeley, CA 94709. (510) 464-3041. frbspd@crl.com
- Panaxis Kits More expensive than the Ramsey and FRB kits, but very good quality. They sell PLL-controlled transmitters for the best frequency stability possible. They also sell many other kits. Unfortunately, if you live in the U.S., they won't sell you RF amplifier kits, but will sell plans for them. Panaxis Productions, P.O. Box 130, Paradise, CA 95967-0130. (916) 534-0417.
